THE DAILY AND WEEKLY HERALD has more than double the circulation of any other paper published in Southern California. Business men recognize it accordingly as the best advertising medium South of San Francisco.

THURSDAY, NOV. 18, 1875.

NEWS OF THE MORNING.

A storm raged all day yesterday at San Francisco, and the telegraph reports it coming down the coast.

The telegraph disappointed us again last night, and we received but a small amount of news.

The latest reports from Spain indicate the end of the Carlist war.

Italy has voted a considerable sum to send a representative to the Centennial.

A collision between the steamers Clyde and Morgan took place on Tuesday, fortunately without loss of life.

Fleet, the murderer of Ned Allen, pled guilty of manslaughter in the Fourth District Court of San Francisco, and received five years.

John Riley, engineer of the ferry boat Mare Island, running to Berkeley, has been missing since Sunday night, at which time he left a San Francisco sailing near the ship. He is supposed to have fallen overboard in a state of intoxication.

The officers of the British Benevolent Association of San Francisco report that there is greater destitution in the city than has been for years past. Many Virginia sufferers swell the list.

An insane man named Thomas Manuel poisoned himself in the City Prison, Sacramento, on Tuesday.

The appeal in the case of David Turley, recently convicted in the Sixth District Court of the murder of Wm. A. Shaw in American Township, in April last, came up in the Supreme Court, Sacramento, on Tuesday morning, when it was dismissed and the judgment of the Court below affirmed.

The Prince of Wales has returned to Paris. The telegraph cable between Madras and Penang has been broken.

It commenced raining in this city about nine o'clock last night.

Nor long ago we noticed an article in one of our local contemporaries urging the location in this city of a branch Insane Asylum. We want no such establishment here and we say this with a full knowledge that we are not with an abundance of local material for stocking an institution of the kind named. Still, insane asylums do not assist the prosperity of a town or city. The Insane Asylum of this State is located at Stockton, and so many half cured and half crazy people have been turned loose upon the place that the visitor is puzzled to determine who of the residents have been inmates of the Asylum and who have not. But seriously an insane asylum neither reflects credit upon nor is it a source of prosperity to a city. We trust no such establishment will ever mar the beauty or disturb the harmony of Los Angeles. We had rather see our city the site of ten colleges than of one branch insane asylum.

The non appearance of O. P. FITZGERALD when the libel suit commenced by himself against the Chronicle was called a few days ago, has given rise to comments adverse to the plaintiff and journals inimical to Mr. FITZGERALD have not been slow in expressing the opinion that he dared not meet the issue. We are enabled to throw some light on the case. From the Examiner we learn that Mr. FITZGERALD has no intention of abandoning the suit; that his course is directed by two eminent members of the bar and that it is his intention to push the matter to the bitter end. The plaintiff does not wish the case passed upon by a legal tribunal until he is enabled to produce the most irrefutable proof of his entire innocence of the charges preferred against him. To obtain this proof it is necessary to send to another State for testimony which when obtained he intends to punish the originator of the slander and then call to a strict account those who have maliciously blackened his fame and name.

A Democratic exchange is curious to know what will be the course of these Republican journals that have so bitterly denounced GRANT's third term aspirations in case that gentleman forces the Republican National convention to nominate him for reelection? Do they will support him, of course? Consistency is an absolute term for a thing that does not exist. It would be a poor complement indeed, to say that Republican journals cannot change their political sentiments as rapidly as their great Republican leader. For years GRANT has watched the bloody struggle in Cuba without showing the slightest sympathy for the Cubans. Now he is going to make a recognition of their cause one of the legs of his Presidential bronze. Paper money is child of the Republican party and inflation is its younger brother, yet GRANT is going to repudiate his own offspring and make hard money another leg to the charger he will ride next year. The Republican journals cannot be more inconsistent and self-stultifying than their leader. They will support him; of course they will. They dare not refuse. The slave who refuses to obey the master goes to bed with an empty stomach and a scourged back.

WITHIN the past few weeks rumor has been busy with the financial reputation of certain wealthy men of San Francisco, and if the half that is told is true colossal fortunes have shrunk to the dimensions of small possessions since the first of last July. Just who have felt the pressure most and who have lost the heaviest is information that is not now and possibly never will be in possession of the public. But it is apparent to all that the shrinkage in mining stocks within the past few months has imposed immense loss on dealers in that class of property. Since the commencement of the financial stress the average shrinkage in mining stocks is perhaps not less than fifty per cent. This is a heavy loss on the holder of a few shares, but the effect is painfully apparent to the man who has millions invested. The great mining stock speculator, in whose name stands blocks of buildings, grants of land and innumerable lots, feels the depreciation because his real estate is heavily mortgaged in security for money that he has invested in stocks which he now sees melting to nothingness. A large proportion of San Francisco's most valuable property is pledged for money invested in mines and mining stocks. It is but reasonable to suppose that the day is not distant when a great deal of this property will change owners.

Chance for Reform.

There is a splendid opportunity in this State for the redemption of the Democratic pledges. We have heard a great deal about Republican extravagance and rascality. The catalogue of indictments against State and municipal administrations is as long as the moral law and a great deal more exciting reading. The People's party, which is but another name for the Republican party, has governed San Francisco for years, and taxes have become simply unbearable. There has been peculation, extravagance and rascality charged up against officials, and these charges have been proven so often that their truth cannot be denied. Well, there has been a change in the political complexion of the city's officials. The Democrats have elected the Mayor, a majority of the Board of Supervisors, and a sufficient number of the other municipal officers to give the entire control of the city's affairs into the hands of the Democracy. Let us see what they will do with it. The Democrats may control San Francisco for years or they may be hurled from place and power at the next election. All depends upon themselves. The people are watching them and a strict account of their stewardship will be demanded. If it is good they will be retained; if it is bad they will be invited to step down and out. After the first Monday of next month the State government will be virtually under the control of the Democracy. That party has brought grave charges against the Republican-Independents now in power, and it has recorded the most solemn promises of reform. Will it redeem them? The opportunity is presented and only disingenuous protest and promises of economical administration. The people expect much of the incoming Democratic administration, and the Republicans hope it will be so much worse than their own that they will again place in power. If after the many protest and promises of economy and reform the Democrats do not inaugurate and maintain an administration that will show a much less bill of expense, they do not deserve and we are sure they will never again receive the confidence of the people. We have had the talk, now let us have the acts.

The Lost Commander.

The Pacific Churchman furnishes the following sketch of Captain Hoyt, who commanded the Pacific when she went down:

J. D. Howell was born in Natchez, Miss., in 1824. He was educated in Annapolis, served as midshipman with honor under Commodore Tucker and Talbot, at Charleston, and as Lieutenant with credit in the James River squadron, under Captains Parker, Wood and Hunter; afterwards at Charleston, under Commodore Tucker, in command of a privateer. After the fall of Charleston he was a lieutenant of artillery in the naval brigade under General Sherman, and was captured by the Confederates. He was a member of the Confederate Navy and was captured by the Union forces at the battle of Appomattox. He was then sent to a prison at Washington, D. C., and was with him at the time of his capture; was then imprisoned at Fort Monroe, where he was held for some time; released he went to Savannah, Ga., where he was again imprisoned. From there he escaped and fled to Canada, and accompanied his brother-in-law, a Canadian, to England. Returning by way of Portland, Me., he was again arrested and sent to Fort Warren, where he was detained for a few weeks and released. He then sailed for Europe and from thence went to New York and went to sea before the mast; returning was engaged with Foneroy on the New York line. Closing his career as a seaman, he was engaged by the Pacific Mail Steamship Company as a master of the Oregon Steamship Company and the North Pacific Transportation Company as master of the shipships Idaho, Montana, Pelican and others.

The following account of a heroic deed performed by this brave man is furnished by the San Francisco Examiner:

Now-people readers will perhaps recall the act of heroism performed by him while first mate of the steamer Oregon, when he saved the vessel from destruction by his heroic efforts in a gale of wind by the loss of her anchor. He was at the time in command of the vessel when Howell proposed to take a small boat and endeavor to effect a landing and gain assistance by means of a line. He was even in such a sea, seemed like seeking death and the dangers, which would beset anyone who should succeed in effecting a landing on the desolate coast, would have appalled an ordinary man. But Howell felt the necessity was great, and after a perilous and wearisome passage effected a landing upon the beach. They were some distance from any settlement and it was only after two days wandering through the forests and over the rocky and mountainous coast that they succeeded in reaching a telegraph station. A tug was secured and dispatched to the relief of the Oregon, and the passengers and crew were rescued. This deed of gallantry brought Howell to the notice of Messrs. Goodall, Nelson & Perkins, and when the opportunity occurred soon after they tendered him the command of the Pacific.

A Picture.

The editor of the San Bernardino Times being a close reader of the Express publishes the following:

He who spends his earnings in dissipation and play, leaving his family to suffer the necessities of life, may be tolerated in a community and endured for a time, but when he so far forgets his manhood and becomes recreant to the obligations imposed upon him by nature and the laws of civilization when under the influence of intoxication or rendered insane by debauch, he lays his hand upon a woman save in his kindred, a wretch whom 'tis base flattery to call a coward, and society should be the reward of his evil doings and the better class of the community should shun a creature as they would leprosy.

For Los Angeles.

CALIENTE, Nov. 16.—The following passengers for Los Angeles left on the Telegraph Stage Line to-day: S. W. Swanson & wife, M. Ackerman, Mrs. Claverance, M. Lehaas, McLean, S. K. Johnson, V. Beaudry, C. Noble, Chas. D. Ward and Chinaman.

CONDENSED TELEGRAMS.

It rained in torrents at Sacramento on Tuesday. The Sacramento and American rivers are rising rapidly.

A fatal shooting affair occurred at the ranch of G. W. Webb, Sweetwater, on Monday night. During the night young Webb heard some one prowling around the house. Going to the door he encountered a man with a double barreled shot-gun and asked what he wanted. The man said, "None of your business." He then called to him three times to stop. Not doing so, Webb fired, the shot taking effect in the head, killing him instantly. On examination of the dead man he was found to be a Frenchman, name unknown. His feet were muffled even in gunny bags and he was handcuffed over his face. Young Webb came in and surrendered himself to the authorities.

A Washington special says that by a special clause in the Hawaiian treaty, made at a special meeting of the Senate last Spring, the treaty will have to be submitted for final ratification of the House of Representatives, as it affects the revenues. It is now regarded doubtful whether the House will concur in the action of the Senate. Senator Booth, of California, says the treaty appears to him to be made entirely in the interest of a few sugar planters in the Sandwich Islands, and that all the benefits that will accrue to the United States are purely mythical.

Olegario, Chief of the Temecula Indians, has had an interview with President Grant, who promised them temporary relief from the payment of taxes to Congress for a permanent home.

The excitement over the Guibord funeral in Montreal has subsided, the remains having been buried on Tuesday. There was a heavy guard of police and military around the vault while the body was being taken to the hearse, which proceeded to the place of burial under heavy military escort, and a strong police force was also stationed at the grave during the burial ceremonies. The grave was filled with a mixture of clay and cement, and a hearse was stationed around the grave until the cement hardened. No disturbance occurred.

United States Treasurer New has concluded not to resign, having received a letter from Mr. English, President of the bank in Indianapolis in which he is interested, announcing that gentleman in very much improved health.

Dr. Barber, Vice President Wilson's physician, requests the numerous friends of his distinguished patient to refrain from writing letters to him, as Mr. Wilson insists upon reading all letters received, and having sat up eight hours Monday he did not rest as well that night as heretofore, and was somewhat more nervous Tuesday morning.

Plum Pudding.

There will be a perfect feast of fat things at the Rink during four days of next week, beginning on Tuesday. The ladies of the Methodist church South, and Baptist church, of this city, have been preparing for a month to get up a four days' feast on that occasion, which will equal in variety and elegance anything ever witnessed on the Pacific coast, and if possible will surpass the annual feasts of the ancient Hebrews. The turkeys, chickens, pigs and lambs that have been contributed, with every other good thing in the calendar of edibles, will supply an array. All of which is to be done up in a style to suit the most fastidious. To give an idea of what they are doing, they have secured the services of a lady directly from Great Britain to make the genuine old-fashioned English plum pudding. The American people will never know anything of the flavor of this savory dish until they eat it from the hands of an English cook. Success to the good ladies of those churches. We hope they will realize a large sum for the benefit of their churches.

Death of Jasper O'Farrell.

A San Francisco dispatch, dated the 16th inst., says:

Jasper O'Farrell died in his chair about half past eight o'clock this evening. The deceased was Harbor Commissioner with Marks, and under investigation at the time Marks' peccadilloes were being ventilated. No evidence was found affecting O'Farrell's character. The deceased was an old resident, a civil engineer by profession, and laid out the city in the early days, O'Farrell street being named after him. He was a native of Ireland and 57 years of age.

Cases of Longevity.

Although we cannot claim that the fountain of perpetual youth, which led the chivalrous Ponce de Leon such a disastrous journey through the wilds of the New World, pours forth its perennial stream within the limits of the Golden State yet the climate of California bears an enviable reputation for recuperative powers and a tendency to promote longevity in man. In support of this, two cases of centenarians have lately come under our notice in this city. James Gahan, "an aged, cold man," reached his one hundred and sixtieth year on Thursday last. He was a native of Jamaica, West Indies. The other is a female who called at the police office yesterday to relate a little grievance she had with her boarding house keeper. In conversation with an officer she gave her name as Mary Hinchey, a native of the county of Limerick, Ireland, and stated her age as 100 years.—S. F. Examiner.

Wheat Does not Pay.

A Russian river correspondent of the Sonoma Democrat, speaking of the productions of that section, says: "Corn is more profitable to raise than wheat. We are advised by farmers of experience with both kinds of grain that this, too, is better paying business than growing wheat, and it costs less than two dollars per hundred. In truth we have so many better paying businesses that wheat growing is on the decline in our community. Our farmers have found that grape growing, wool growing, hog raising, potato producing, corn cropping and pumpkin producing are any of them more remunerative than continued wheat growing. So that any and all these farm products may be found on our market at any time." This may be very true, on the rich bottom lands of the Russian river, where corn grows like the natural grasses and appears to be only amusing itself when it is hard-pressed at work growing. But in most other parts of the State, wheat will for a long time be the great staple product.

CARP FISH POND.

Proposition for the Establishment of a Carp Fish Pond in the Canal and Reservoir Company's Reservoir Close to the Woolen Mill.

EDITOR HERALD: When the project was first broached of making a vast reservoir of crystal water in the great canyon which lies directly West of the city, I proposed to one of the leading officers of the company that I would be glad to have the use of that reservoir for the purpose of introducing some one species of fish that would be admirably adapted to such a temperature as the observed thermometer and barometrical measurements indicated. He certainly did not understand the great advantages that, by this time, would have accrued to such an effort. I was so completely disheartened by the coldness of his respect, broach the subject again. But time is a great teacher; it softens down asperities. New wants are continually created; new luxuries appeal to our plethoric pocket-books. Our beautiful young children—think them so—prattle to papa and mamma: "Take us up to the carp pond and let us see the beautiful, gentle fish."

THE PROPER KIND OF CARP TO BE INTRODUCED.

There was a time when there was no carp in England. This fish is now naturalized in all the rivers of that country. Aristotle and Pliny mention it as a fine river fish. It is a fish that bites readily at the hook, and is one of the most fecund fish in the world. It usually has 300,000 ova, and in Holland they take these fish out of the canals and pack them in cool cellars in wet moss, and instead of dying they grow fat, being fed by sweet cow's milk for many months in the year. They are the longest lived fish in the world, having been known to live from 150 to 200 years. In England they attain a weight of eighteen to twenty pounds. On the continent they have been known to reach as much as forty pounds. This fish was brought to America by Henry York, from France in 1832 and placed in his ponds in that country, where they have ever since been propagated, supplying the tables of New York and other cities. About the introduction of the carp into England there is a quaint but quite good couplet, by Sir Richard Baker—

Hope and turkey, ale and beer,
Came into England all in a year.

The carp lives the longest out of the water of any other fish. Aristotle and Pliny say the carp will spawn six times a year, and when the temperature is not lower than 40°. Iovius, born at Lake Como, says he has seen carp in Lake Lurian that weighed fifty pounds and were nearly three feet long. The tongues of carps served up in the Italian mode are a most magnificent first dinner relish. James Dubravus says that the carp begins to spawn at three years old and continues until thirty. The spawn is laid on flags and water cress, around the edges of the pond. In Italy they sell the carp spawn to the Jews, who manufacture it into red caviare. The carp is either a river or a pond fish, and is herbivorous.

HOW TO MAKE A DISH OF HIM.

When taken, scour him clean, but do not scale him. Then open him and take out his bowels. Put his liver and all his blood into a porcelain kettle. Take sweet marjoram, thyme and parsley, half a handful; one sprig of rosemary and one of savory. Chop the fish with these and stuff with two large-sized California oranges, thinly sliced, interspersed with twenty Eastern fresh oysters and four anchovies. Put him in a large sized boiling-pot and pour over him best clear wine enough to float him, first seasoning it with powdered salt, cloves, mace, rinds of oranges and three lemon peels. Put the lid on and set your pan over a quick fire until it is fully done. Take it out and pour the contents into a tureen, and over it pour a quart of a pound of fresh Los Angeles country butter, first melted in a separate pan, beaten into a froth with the yolks of three eggs and serve the fish hot, with Cucumongo or Cluquet—best French—and you have a dish of fish never to be forgotten.

We believe that the Canal and Reservoir Company can stock their pond at almost a nominal cost, and turn out a profit to themselves and a luxury to the people of this city such as is not now realized by the citizens of San Francisco or any people on the Pacific slope. Some curious person asks, "But how do you feed this kind of fish?" Chop him up cabbages, water cress, young squashes, soft pumpkins and macerated sweet potatoes. "Boiled?" No, sir, raw.

A Strange Will.

A Mr. Allen who died in Los Angeles some time ago, left $10,000 to the county, on condition that it should be kept at interest until it would amount to $30,000. In case it was not accepted by the county then it was to go to any county of any State, except Cook county, Illinois, which should agree to these terms. The will has been probated, but the testator's relatives contested it on the ground of his insanity. We have every affection for Los Angeles county, but hope to see this will set aside. Such bequests do not reduce county debts or taxes and the money will do more good to the relatives than to the corporation. When a dying man ignores his relatives and leaves his property to a church, corporation or society he is generally set down as non compos mentis. The gentleman excepted Cook county, Illinois, in which Chicago is situated, but did not except the county in which San Francisco is situated. This in itself is enough to prevent the testator's insanity before any jury.

Mr. B. H. Twombly, school teacher at Compton, informs us that his family were to leave Leavenworth, Kansas, on Tuesday for Los Angeles. Mr. Twombly has just sold his farm in Leavenworth county for thirty dollars per acre and will invest here.

We find the following marriage notice in the Schoolmaster: In Santa Clara, Nov. 3, at the residence of the bride's parents, by Rev. H. D. Lathrop, W. Kline, of San Francisco, to Miss Ella Russell. (No cards.)

The above announcement is by a satisfactory explanation to Miss Russell's many friends in Los Angeles why she declined to return, though when leaving she seemed very much inclined to do so. Her associate teacher, Mrs. Brown, and pupils send their hearty congratulations.

GOLD REPORT.

SAN FRANCISCO NOV. 16.

Gold, 114 1/2. Greenbacks—Buying, 86; selling, 87.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

The Council meets to-night.

The weather was dark and lowering yesterday.

Hermann, the magician, arrives to-day by the Senator.

A fine lot of garden seeds at the Grange Store.

General Phineas Banning was reported in San Francisco last Monday.

The Schoolmaster has appeared full of its usual array of good things.

Don F. P. Foster's horses are installed at Agricultural Park.

Confidence Engine Company No. 2. had a meeting last night.

Mr. Ernest Neitzke was rejoicing over the birth of a daughter yesterday.

The steamer Ancon left for San Diego yesterday.

Mr. Tipton, of Duarte, was in the city yesterday.

Mr. A. Georgiana, of San Francisco, left yesterday for Cucamongo to look after his interests there.

The train for the steamer Ancon for San Francisco leaves to-morrow at 3 P. M.

Mushrooms are showing themselves by the millions on the hills since the recent rains.

Gold closed yesterday afternoon at 114 1/2 per cent. premium. Currency sold here at 86 1/2.

The stagnant pool in the gutter on Spring street between Second and Third has been scraped out.

A pure article of alfalfa seed in large or small quantities can be had at the Grange Store.

Judge Storer, formerly of the Good-enough Horse Shoeing Company, leaves in a few days for San Diego.

Remember the grand entertainment to be given by Hermann on Saturday night at Turn-Verein hall.

A franchise to the East Los Angeles horse railroad will probably be issued to-night.

Mr. S. Carey Evans, of Fort Wayne, Indiana, is on his way to Los Angeles to settle. He is a man of means.

Mr. Thatcher, the well known jeweler, has made some elegant badges for the Agricultural Society.

The San Francisco Chronicle reports that Temple & Workman's bank will re-open in a few days.

A Louisville colony of fifty persons is either coming to Los Angeles or San Bernardino county.

Coeur de Lion Commandry No. 9 K. T. will hold its stated convocation at Masonic Hall this evening.

The fare for the round trip to Agricultural Park via Los Angeles and Independence Railroad will be fifty cents.

Fischer, the agent for Chicago beer, must be doing a fine business, as he shipped back thirty empty kegs yesterday.

Deputy U. S. Marshal Dunlap has returned from Independence and Darwin. He reports some rock that yielded $8,000 to the ton.

Mr. Wm. Jacobs, of the firm of A. Lusk & Co., San Francisco, has made arrangements for a considerable share of the orange crop of this valley.

M. Muldoon and wife arrived in San Francisco last Saturday night. He is Muldoon, the solid man, that we hear so much about.

This evening at 7:30 o'clock there will be a meeting of the Directors of the Brooklyn Land and Building Company, at the Secretary's office.

Mr. Barron, of Santa Monica, intends to leave soon for New York to buy or hire two steamers to run between San Francisco and Santa Monica.

Turn-Verein hall has been re-fitted for the dramatic entertainment of to-night. It is neat and comfortable, and will undoubtedly be crowded with the lovers of the drama.

The New Italy for November has appeared and is brimful of interesting facts about Southern California. It is a valuable immigration document, and should be widely circulated.

There will be a meeting at 7:30 to-night in Wolf's Salon of the members of old Los Angeles Company No. 1. Business of importance will be transacted and a full attendance is requested.

Mr. Victor Beaudry Beaudry, brother of Mayor Beaudry, who has been on a visit to friends and relations in Canada, is among the passengers who arrived by the Telegraph stage this morning.

Joe Breson's Senate saloon keeps up its old popularity, and no doubt during Fair week will be crowded with visitors. Joe Breson knows how to keep a saloon, and will regale his customers with elegant lunches and prime liquors.

Among the shipments yesterday from the Southern Pacific Railroad depot were 20 empty beer kegs from E. Fischer, 5 barrels of wine from A. Polanco, 15 packages of wine and brandy from M. Keller, 10 kegs of beer from the New York Brewery, 13 sacks of sweet potatoes from A. F. Kercheval.

The Yuma Sentinel of last Saturday says that "Mr. Charles Ayers, from Los Angeles, crossed the river last Wednesday, at Yeager's ferry, with about four thousand sheep in fine order and condition. We don't exactly know the destination of this flock, but they passed through town Eastward and took the Tucson road."

Mr. L. J. Rose's horse Moor, valued at $5,000, has died of the epizootic. Beautiful Bells are sick. It is a matter of public regret that this fell disease has appeared in Mr. Rose's stables. He has done much for improving the horses of this section and his loss is felt by all horse fanciers.

Teachers' Institute.

Wednesday's session of the Institute opened shortly after 9 A. M. with roll-call, at which sixty-two teachers responded.

After the rendition of a song by the Music Committee, Dr. Lucky offered an impressive prayer.

The critics for Wednesday were appointed: Miss Johns and Mr. Wm. McPherson.

Miss Porter and Mr. Henderson read the criticisms they had prepared on the language and manners of the teachers who participated in Tuesday's proceedings. The report contained many excellent hits, and was received with deserved applause.

The minutes of the previous day were read and approved.

Mr. Jno. Hayes read from past numbers of the Schoolmaster his own article on Institutes; a vigorous attack, but not sufficient to convince teachers that Institutes are useless.

Mr. Warren made an able reply to the article, and Mr. Saxe supplemented his remarks most admirably. The discussion culminated in the reading by Dr. Lucky of the following:

Resolved, That our Senator and Assemblymen be requested to propose a proposition to abolish County Teachers' Institutes.

Rather a stormy scene ensued, owing to the President's opinion that the resolution was not tendered in due order. Messrs. Peck, Saxe, Warren, Saxe, Hayes, Barker, Dubois and others participated, and the worthy battle raged until Dr. Lucky poured the oil of his eloquence on the troubled waters. (Be kind enough to overlook mixed metaphor.) Mr. Bodkin spoke sharply, too. After some additional discussion the resolution was adopted, and the Secretary was instructed to furnish a copy thereof to the Senator and Assemblymen.

The Institute, after listening to a well written essay by Mr. Tombs on "Literary associations," took a recess of ten minutes.

The Music Committee discoursed some fine music, after which the regular order of business gave way to the following resolution (deciphered by a Saxon from a "hieroglyphic" MS.):

Resolved, That the teachers attending the next Institute be requested to add $100, U. S. gold coin, to the fund devoted to Institutes, and that a Finance and Business Committee be now appointed to aid the County Superintendent in the management of the next Institute.

The resolution was adopted, and the following committee appointed: R. B. Warren, C. H. Kimball, D. A. Reed, and Misses Bengough, Johns and Dees.

Mr. Burke read an essay on the affirmative of the question: "Are school examination exhibitions advisable?" After some discussion and a division of the question, it was decided by vote that examinations are profitable.

The question was laid over for the P. M. session and the meeting adjourned till 1 P. M. Present at roll call, 56. Music by the choir. The exhibition question was resumed and after remarks by Messrs. Bell, Henderson, Bodkin, Fisher and Lane. The affirmative was sustained almost unanimously. A resolution was adopted, which provided that no speaker except the leader of a question should be allowed to speak twice on the same subject, nor for longer than five minutes.

Mr. B. H. Twibler read an essay, practical and polished. Mr. McCusick followed with an interesting discourse on "Geography; how to teach it." Remarks on the subject were made by Messrs. Lucky, Henderson, Saxe and others. The Right Rev. Bishop Kavanagh was introduced by Supr. Peck, and addressed the Institute, which then took a recess.

Dr. Lucky made an able address on School Government, which gave all new ideas on this interesting subject.

Supr. Peck then stated that several subjects, crowded out of the day's programme, would be discussed on Thursday when Mr. Guinn delivers a lecture at Good Templars' Hall. The following is the programme for Thursday:

THURSDAY A. M.
The best method of teaching the Spanish element in our schools. Essay by Mr. Thomas Briggs.
General discussion.
Grammar: How to teach it. Essay by Mr. Wesley Williams.
General discussion.
Are our studies and teachings sufficiently practical? Essay by Mr. C. C. Cummings.
General discussion.
What disposition should a teacher make of his time out of school? Essay by Mr. Dayton A. Reed.
General discussion.

MUSIC.
THURSDAY P. M.
Should prizes or rewards be given for superior deportment or scholarship? Essay: Affirmative, Mr. W. P. McDonald; negative, Mr. Jno. P. McNamee.
General discussion.
Drawing in schools. Essay by Miss E. P. Brady.
Needlework: Should it be taught in the schools? Essay: Affirmative, Mary Hutchinson; negative, Miss Ella Lee Hall.
General discussion.
Stammering: How to cure it. Essay by Mr. Geo. Blackburn.
MUSIC.
EVENING.
"Moods": A lecture by Mr. Ira Moore, recently Superintendent of St. Cloud Normal School, Minnesota.
A carrier of the Alta died the other day, worth $100,000. This is an encouraging thing for the carriers of the Herald. They are enterprising young men, bold of them would cover $50,000 now, but if they faithfully serve the paper for twenty-five years, as the carrier of the Alta did, they will have their reward in wealth and a nice obituary notice.

Among the receipts yesterday at the Southern Pacific Railroad depot were a lot of plants for H. Shaeffer, a quantity of sash, doors and blinds for Perry, Woodworth & Co., 25 cases of Chinese nut oil for H. Newmark & Co., 8 cars of lumber for J. G. Jackson & Co., 6 cars of lumber for Perry, Woodworth & Co., and 3 cars of lumber for Griffith, Lynch & Co.

An advertisement in the New York Herald says: "Wanted—a man with $20,000 to buy a business paying $10,000 a year. Ill health the cause of selling." We don't see how a man can be in ill health on that kind of an income. We have had much for improving the horses of this section and his loss is felt by all horse fanciers.

DUTY AND REWARD.

Every day has toil and trouble. Every heart hath care: Meekly bear thine own full measure, And thy brother's share.

Fear not, shrink not, though the burden Heavy to the prove: God shall fill thy mouth with gladness, And thy heart with love.

Patience and courage, ever Ready to the proof: Bound by links that cannot sever, To humanity.

Labor—wait! thy Master pushed Ere his task was done; Count not lost thy fleeting moments, Life hath but begun.

Labor and the seed thou sowest Water with thy tears: God shall fill thy mouth with gladness, Answer to thy prayers.

Wait in hope, though yet no verdure Gild thy longing eyes, That shall see the ripened harvest Garnered in the skies.

Labor—wait! though midnight shadows Gather round thee here, And the storms above the 1 working Fill the air with fire.

Wait in hope! the morning dawneth And the night is gone; And a peaceful rest awaits thee When thy work is done.

Southern District Agricultural Society.

The Society met yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Minutes read, and the resignation of J. F. Burns accepted. Mr. Burns was tendered a vote of thanks on motion of Major B. C. Truman.

Mr. Welsh was requested to have the railroad crossing on Figueroa street widened.

Messrs. Wiley & Smith were appointed a committee on the sale of tickets.

On motion of Dr. J. F. Griffin, the Secretary was directed to open a correspondence with the different nurserymen with the view to the purchase of seeds and young fruit trees to be planted in the Park grounds.

Dr. J. S. Griffin, L. J. Rose, T. D. Mott, Ben. C. Truman, and Charles A. Currier, were appointed a committee to report at the annual meeting of the stockholders their views as to the propriety of conveying a portion of the Society's grounds to the L. A. & I. R. C.

The resolution giving the Chief of Police the right during Fair week $100 was rescinded.

Ordered that the first race on each day start at 12:30 precisely.

The business committee were requested to have prepared a sign or placard, to be placed near the Judge's stand, announcing a fine of $5 for driving the reverse way of the track, during Fair week.

The Board of Managers were called to meet to-day at two o'clock P. M.

Invalids Seeking Climate for Health.

Dr. Aborn, who has had large experience on the Pacific Coast in the treatment of diseases of the eye, ear, throat, lungs, heart, nervous system, also NASAL CATARRH and broken-down constitutions, claims that it is a mistaken idea for the invalid to rely entirely upon a change of climate to effect a cure of these ailments. The plan of medical treatment adopted by Dr. Aborn has proven to be the only rational and reliable means of cure for persons afflicted with these maladies. The Doctor's system of local treatment—mediated inhalation—in conjunction with his peculiarly efficacious constitutional remedies, have effected permanent cures in a short time, in many instances after the invalids have expended thousands of dollars in visiting the various health resorts without avail. The climate of Southern California is favorable to a speedy recovery from these affections, combined with Dr. ABORN'S mode of medication. Dr. ABORN is now on a professional tour to San Francisco, California, and can be consulted for a short time at the Backman House, Los Angeles.

Dillon & Kenaley's emporium of fashion is crowded daily with purchasers of cheap dry goods. When this firm opened business on Los Angeles street their success so far exceeded their expectations that they removed to Main street, with the intention of taking a leading rank in the trade, and have done an immense business. They buy at first hands in New York, thus avoiding the payment of middlemen, to whom the goods are given their customers the same advantage they would have in San Francisco. To see the stacks of kid gloves, hosiery, lace, underclothing, ladies' dress goods, ladies' and gentlemen's furnishings goods, and those miscellaneous articles, and the beautiful ornaments which attract the fashionable, and then to learn how cheap they sell, invariably makes a customer. Give them a call before purchasing.

The finest stock of poultry in this neighborhood is owned by Messrs. Brunk & Bruck. All who want to stock their poultry houses with the finest layers, setters, or table fowl should examine the extensive stock of imported varieties, such as can only be got among Eastern poultry raisers. The size, beauty and good qualities of this poultry have given Brunk & Bruck a great name among our fowl raisers, and when their show is made at the Agricultural Fair their scope will be the centre of attraction.

Remember the English dramatic performance at Turn-Verein Hall this evening. The English Dramatic Section of the Turn-Verein have been making preparations to produce in good style the two elegant plays billed for to-night, and will give an entertainment of more than usual merit. All that Glitters will not prove to be the wind up. The opening drama is full of interest and the after-piece is execrable. Go early and get a good seat.

Mr. I. Lankershim and other capitalists are interesting themselves in a road from San Fernando valley to Santa Monica. The distance from Garner's house in San Fernando valley to Santa Monica is only eight miles, and the grade is not more than one foot in ten. Col. Crawford has been inspecting the proposed route over the Cahuenga hills, and says that a splendid road can be built for $3,500 and an ordinary one for $2,500.

We see that several Eastern medical journals are gravely discussing, "How alcohol enters the system." We don't know how it is down East, but in Los Angeles it enters the system through the mouth. The process is very simple and usually only costs twelve and a half cents. You take a glass of beer, and you are done. You don't have to take a glass of beer, and you are done. You don't have to take a glass of beer, and you are done.

Passengers Coming.

The Atlantic Senator, will arrive to-day at Santa Monica and San Pedro with the following list of passengers for Los Angeles: C. F. Norton, R. Jacobs, Mrs. Stevenson and daughter, T. Haney, W. Stewart, Mrs. Helmouth and children, Mr. Chinnam, Mrs. Street and friend, J. C. Storr, J. D. Bell and wife, W. H. Davis, Miss F. Lewis, J. C. Johnson and wife, J. M. Garon, W.
